DETAILED ACTION

This is a first office action on the merits of this application. Claim 1 is presented for examination.

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because they fail to include appropriate labels or legends. The numbers should be accompanied with sufficient labels or legends so as to be understandable to a person having ordinary skill in the art. A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: on page 2, lines 24-25, and on pages 6, line 29 – page 7, line 1, the following phrase is ambiguous: "it can then shown in memory through the virtual browser."

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 2153

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Takeda (U.S. Patent No. 6,256,750).

In considering claim 1, Takeda discloses a host computer system ("client 702") that directs information to software ("driver 706") associated with a peripheral device ("printer 701"; Fig. 7; col. 5, lines 47-53), which modifies this information to be recognized by the peripheral device (col. 6, lines 23-24, wherein the printer driver "convert[s] the print data to a printer language"), and transmits it to a connecting port capable of interfacing with the peripheral device (the "port," not shown, is inherent in any device communicating across a network), to be intercepted by another software unit ("virtual print server service (client) 712") which diverts it to a remote device ("server 703"; col. 6, lines 30-36), that directs it to the peripheral device connected to same remote device, such that a two way communication channel is provided between the host computer and the peripheral device to allow data to be sent between them (col. 6, lines 52-63; col. 7, lines 1-16, wherein the print data is sent to the printer, and wherein the host computer system is able to discover the status of the printer device, thereby allowing two-way information communication).
